

MAY 29, 2009

Petitioner represents that she is a homeowner in Charleston, South Carolina, and that she has installed solar photovoltaics on her home. She wishes to intervene in this docket as a party. No party has objected to her intervention. No prejudice to any party would result from her intervention. The Commission has broad discretion to allow intervention out of time where it would cause no prejudice to any party and where no party objects to such intervention. Accordingly, Petitioner's request that she be allowed to intervene out of time is granted.

We dismiss as moot the Petitioner's request that members of the public who attend the June 30 hearing in this matter be allowed to testify without formal intervention as parties and without prefilng testimony, since the Commission's normal procedures already allow public testimony of non-parties who attend hearings, without requiring the prefilng of their testimony. Only those persons and organizations who formally intervene as parties must prefile testimony.

This Order shall remain in full force and effect until further order of the Commission.

Elizabeth B. Fleming, Chairman
